San Domingo.

Our advices from the Dominican Republic are of considerable interest. The elections have resulted in the choice of Don Jose Valverde to the Presidency, while Don Domingo Roxas is chosen Vice-President. Baezara, who took no part in the election, but is encamped before the capital with 7,000 men, participated in the ceremonial of inauguration. A Te Deum was sung at the cathedral, the oath administered, after which, the President was conducted to Santiago amid the shouts of the multitude. One of the first acts of the new Government has been the reestablishment of the Postal Service between Puerto Plata and St. Thomas. The happiest results are anticipated from the patriotism and intelligence of the new Administration. The following is a list of the chief Executive:

President—Jose Valverde.
Vice President—Domingo Roxas.
Minister of War and the Marine—Ramon Mella.
Minister of State and Foreign Affairs—Pablo Pujol.
Minister of Justice and Pub Instr'n—Domingo Richards.

Hayti.

We learn from Port-au-Prince that the Emperor Faustin has granted to a merchant of Kingston, Jamaica, the right to the guano upon the Island of Navassa. Navassa, it will be remembered, is a paltry islet to the south of Aux Cayes; which, until quite recently, was uninhabited. Some Americans discovering its value as a guano deposit, resorted thither under the auspices of Baltimore capitalists, and commenced loading the guano. Soulouque, learning this movement, dispatched some war vessels to the island, where were found a dozen Americans, and a score of mulattos and blacks, busily engaged in removing the deposits to a couple of vessels. The Haytien officers were politely received; and having protested against the American occupation, and run up the Imperial flag, sailed away to Port-au-Prince, leaving the whites to prosecute their labors. It is feared that when the Kingston speculator proceeds to take possession, backed by a Haytien force, trouble may ensue, resulting eventually in diplomatic difficulties with the Government of the United States.

West Indies.

By the arrival of the Vanderbilt, we are placed in possession of advices from the Windward Islands, received at Southampton, by the steamer Magdalena, on the 16th ult.

General news from Barbadoes is without interest. The House of Assembly was appointed to meet by adjournment on the 29th June, but there was nothing of importance before it excepting the Education bill, which it was thought would not be proceeded with. The weather had been very favorable during the fortnight, frequent showers having fallen, which had enabled the general planting of provisions. Crop operations were rapidly coming to a close, and by the end of the month very little sugar would remain to be made. There were several vessels loading in the Bay, and sugar on board these, waiting for shipment in town, and upon the stanchions through the country, could scarcely be much under 6,000 hhds. Native provisions continued scarce, but there had been no lack of American arrivals, and the market was well supplied with Breadstuffs. There was little doing in Freights; a bark had been charted to load for Dublin at 3s. 6d. @ 4s.

Several of the parties concerned in the late riots at Antigua have been convicted and sentenced, twenty-five of them to two years' imprisonment each, and others to various terms of imprisonment with fines.

At Demerara, the season was the wettest that has been experienced for years. The public dinner to His Excellency, the Governor, was to take place on the 29th of June. The schooner Excelsior arrived from Surinam on the 22d, with five Kroomen who had escaped from Cayenne in an open boat, and were picked up by the schooner on her voyage hence to Surinam. The captain of the Excelsior took the five men on with him to Paramaribo, and thence to Demerara on the return voyage.

The rainy season has set in at Trinidad with greater violence than it has been known to do for many years past. The streets have been "down" in great places and had commenced, by their rush of waters, several accidents. An American firm, Messrs. T. E. Philbrick & Co., who are working or using the patent of Mr. Hiram Hyde, of Nova Scotia, have succeeded in introducing into the colony the use of pitch or asphalt oil, manufactured from the Trinidad asphalt. It is now getting into general use, and will very soon supersede the use of cocoanut oil for lighting purposes in the West Indies. On the 23d of June the marble statue of Lord Harris (now Governor of Madras), who was Governor of this island for seven years, was inaugurated with great ceremony.

For Fraser's River Direct.

The steamship Hermann, Capt. Edward Cavendy, is advertised to sail on the 21st inst., direct for California and Fraser's River, touching at Montevideo, Rio Janeiro and Valparaiso. Price of passage not stated. The Hermann is sent to the Pacific as the pioneer steamer of the Nicaragua Line. Besides the steamer Washington, it is understood, that the Huntsville and Augusta (of Mitchill's Savannah Line) have been secured to run between New York and Greytown, and that the first steamer with passengers by the new route will depart in season to connect with the Hermann on her arrival at San Juan del Sud. A small side-wheel steamer has been purchased, or is being negotiated for, to transport passengers and freight upon the River. She is 103 feet long, 23½ feet breadth of beam, drawing four feet aft and three feet forward. She will be provided with two separate oscillating engines, so as to enable the boat to make the short turns in the river.

The steamers heretofore used have had one stern-wheel only. The situation of the steamboats in Nicaragua is not encouraging. The steamboat Clayton is sunk below the Castillo Rapids, and is a total loss. The Morgan is in working condition, and is in the possession of Manzanas, who is using her as a transport between the upper Castillo Rapids and San Carlos. The La Virgin is in good running order, on the Lake, and makes occasional trips between San Carlos and Virgin Bay. The San Carlos, which is the most valuable boat on the Lake, is ashore near La Virgin, and if she remains long in this condition, will be an entire loss. It is said she can be got afloat for $2,000. Whoever obtains possession of the Transit route will probably be able to purchase these boats, on easy terms, from the claimants, for the transportation of passengers on the Lake.

Naval Intelligence.

There are 2,100 workmen on the rolls at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and work is lively. The razee Savannah is lying in the stream ready for sea. She sails on Tuesday for Aspinwall and San Juan. Her officers are: Captain Jarvis; Lieutenants Worden, Kincaid, Carter, Erwin and Pelot; Purser Cahoone; Surgeon McClellan; Past Assistant Surgeon Caldwell; Marine Lieutenant Hays; Midshipman Mosley; Master's Mates, Harris, Bowers, ——; Captain's Clerk, Curtis; Boatswain, Blagdon; Carpenter, Wiemer; Sailmaker, Rogers; Gunner, Moran.

The Savannah has a crew of 310, including 45 marines. She mounts 22 guns on the gun-deck, and two ten-inch Paixhan pivot shell guns on the spar deck.

The frigate Sabine is being fitted out in a thorough manner. She was built in 1841-5, but was launched only a year or two ago, and has never yet been in commission. She will be ready for sea about the middle of August, and will probably be sent to the Brazil station.

Orders were on Saturday received from the Navy Department to commence the work at once on one of the seven steamers authorized at the last session of Congress, and her keel will be laid in the shiphouse whence the Niagara was launched, as soon as the St. Louis is off the ways. Her length is to be 200 feet, measurement 1,000 tons, and draft of water about 13 feet. The jaw limits the draft of all the new steamers to 14 feet. She will be pierced for four heavy guns, two 11-inch swivel guns and two long 32-pounders. The work will be done under the superintendence of the naval constructor.

The marines are now quartered near the gate. They number about one hundred.

The new reservoir building is roofed in and nearly completed. The steam engine and pumps are on the ground in working order. The supply of water will be ample—120 gallons per minute—although the well is only about 25 feet deep.

Mr. P. T. Barnum's Affairs.—The New-Haven Register of the 31st ult. says:

"Messrs Eliphalet A. Bulkley, of Hartford, Josiah M. Carter, of Norwalk, and Wm. C. Case, a committee of the Superior Court, have been, for some time engaged at the Court house in this city, in the hearing of a suit between the New-Haven County Bank and P. T. Barnum, of Bridgeport, on the one side, and the Quinnipiack Bank of New-Haven, on the other, in relation to a mortgage of $35,000 assigned by P. T. Barnum to secure some of his indebtedness. The investigation has involved the question of Barnum's insolvency, and the buying up and settlement of claims against him. Gov. Buckingham, Gen. Hawley, Wm. H. Bristol, and Duncan Morrison, of Bridgeport, appear for the County Bank, and Messrs. Perkins & Ingersoll, of Hartford, for Quinnipiack Bank. The testimony closed last evening, and the argument will be heard to-day."

Sea and Shore News.

Rescues of Sea. John Gilpin Rewarded.

The Government at Washington has awarded the sum of $3,374 60 to Capt. Charles A. Fanconer, the owner of the ship Herefordshire of London, for detention and expenses incurred by that vessel in rescuing the passengers and crew of the ship John Gilpin, wrecked off Cape Horn, and taking them to Bahia. Capt. Thomas E. Scott, the commander of the Herefordshire, received a service of silver plate, consisting of six pieces, for his humane conduct on that occasion.

The steamer Ocean Queen, Capt. Tinklepaugh, went up to Rondout on Friday, a distance of twenty one hundred miles, in six hours and three minutes. This steamer is over 4,000 tons measurement, and is the largest vessel that has ever passed through the Highlands of the North River. She draws but a ligh draught for so large a vessel. She went up to obtain coal for a sea voyage.

The Vanderbilt steamship North Star, Captain Jones, which sailed Saturday morning for Havre, was obliged to anchor at Quarantine, on account of some difficulty among the crew. The difficulty was finally settled by setting some of the refractory sailors, and she went to sea. She carried 118 first cabin passengers, 139 in the second cabin, and $171,600 in specie.

Particulars of the Fearful Mutiny on the New-Bedford Whaleship Junior.

From the Hartford Times.

We gave, in Friday's Times, a brief account of the mutiny on board the whaleship Junior, and the arrival of the first mate, Mr. Prevost, at New-London from a special correspondent we have received the following highly interesting account of this terrible affair:

Correspondence of the Times.

New-London, July 30.—The whaleship Junior, of New-Bedford, sailed from that port on a whaling voyage on the 21st of July, 1857. She went around the Cape of Good Hope into the Indian Ocean, bound for New Zealand. When in lat. 37° 58' South, long. 156° 58' East, and about 400 miles from New-Zealand, a part of the ship's crew rose in the night and murdered the captain (Archibald Mellen, Jr., of Martha's Vineyard) and the third mate (John Smith, of Boston.) They also attempted to murder the first and second mates at the same time, and dangerously wounded them. The prominent facts are these: The ringleaders in the mutiny are Chas Plummer and Edward Cazena. These, in company with Cornelius Burns, John Hall, alias Wm. Payne, Wm. Herbert, and perhaps some others, by a preconcerted arrangement, about 1 o'clock on the morning of the 26th, armed themselves and went into the cabin, where the captain and three mates were asleep. Plummer proceeded to the captain's state-room, and immediately shot him with a whaling gun containing three balls, when the captain instantly sprang up and exclaimed, "My God! what is this?" Plummer replied, "G— d—— you, it is me!" and then took him by the hair of the head and dispatched him by repeated blows with a hatchet on the neck and in his ribs. At the same time that Plummer went to the captain's state room, Burns, Hall and Herbert proceeded to the state-rooms of the mates.

Hall shot the first mate in the shoulder with a whaling-gun, with six balls, inflicting a horrible wound. Burns killed the third mate by repeated stabs through the body with a boarding-knife. Cazena in the meantime struggled with the second mate with a boarding-knife, but missed his victim. He then drew a pistol and fired at him, the ball striking his rib and inflicting a severe but not dangerous wound. In the meantime Burns attempted to dispatch him, but he surrendered and went on deck, and the mutineers, after binding him, agreed to spare his life. When Hall fired into the first mate's berth he set the bed on fire, and supposing them all dead but the second mate, the mutineers left the cabin. The first mate was first awakened by hearing Plummer give the word "fire," when he immediately received the six balls in his shoulder. At the same time he heard screaming, which proceeded undoubtedly from the other officers who were at the same moment being attacked. The first mate (Mr. Nelson Prevost) was stunned by the explosion and the wound he had received for a moment or two, during which the mutineers, supposing him dead, left the cabin and went on deck. Mr. Prevost then got up and went to the captain's state-room, and found him on his chest leaning on his arm. He raised him up and he breathed two or three times, and, without speaking, expired. Mr. Prevost also went to the second and third mates' rooms, and found the former wounded and the latter dying.

The mutineers soon after—finding Mr. Prevost was still alive—ordered him on deck, and he attempted to go, but he says he should not like words could be taken, and descended into the upper hold, and covered himself among the barrels. In the mean time the burning bed had communicated the flames to the wood-work of the cabin, and before Mr. Prevost left, and went into the hold, he begged the mutineers to put out the fire. This they succeeded in doing after the cabin had been badly damaged by the flames, a considerable portion of it having been destroyed.

Immediately after the havoc in the cabin was finished, and the mutineers got on deck, they called all hands, when Plummer and Cazena informed them that the ship was taken, and the former proceeded to take command. They then proceeded to search the ship for the first mate, but did not succeed in finding him until the fifth day. Not finding him after several days' search, and finding a cabin window open, they surmised that he had jumped overboard.

In the meantime, Prevost becoming faint from loss of blood and thirst, crawled into the lower hold, and finding a cask of water with the bung out, tore off his shirt collar, and dipping it into the cask, sucked from the cloth a little water, which enabled him just to support life. He found a little bread also.

By the time they discovered Prevost, on the 5th day, the murderers had found out that they could not navigate the ship, and were glad to spare his life on condition that he would pilot them to Cape Howe, in New South Wales—an uninhabited portion of the island. This Mr. Prevost, being entirely in their power, promised to do. They also compelled him to promise, by swearing him on the Bible, that, after they landed, he would immediately sail for New Zealand, nearly a thousand miles from New South Wales. Mr. P. then gave them the courses by which to work the ship, and they brought her within 19 or 20 miles of land, when the mutineers left the ship, with some others of the crew, whom they had compelled to accede to join them, making ten, the mutineers included. They left on the 4th of Jan., taking with them two boats, with stores, clothing, etc., and sailed for Cape Howe. While on board the Junior they guarded the wounded mates, the guard being armed with pistols and hatchets. During the night, however, Plummer and Cazena would allow no one but themselves to stand watch over them.

After the mutineers left the ship, and were out of sight, Mr. Prevost took command of the ship and steered immediately for Sidney, in New South Wales, which is about 350 miles from Cape Howe where the mutineers landed. The condition of affairs was immediately reported to the American Consul at Sidney, and a British steamer, with policemen on board, together with the second mate of the Junior, was dispatched in pursuit of the murderers, and eight of them were captured, and are now on their way home in irons, on board the ship which was the scene of their horrid butchery.

Mr. Prevost and three of the crew came home in the India of New-London, where they arrived on Wednesday last.

Mr. Prevost conducted himself with great prudence and skill in his trying situation. Before he left the cabin, he found the cabin-boy and sent him for the second mate, determined, with the help of the latter, to retake the ship or die. But the second mate was already in the hands of the murderers, who had bound him fast. Mr. Prevost had no alternative but to secure himself. He suffered intense agony from the horrid wound in his shoulder during those five days, and from both heat and cold. He fell asleep but once during the time. In the morning the flesh in the wood-work of the cabin, and before Mr. Prevost left, and went into the hold, he begged the mutineers to put out the fire. This they succeeded in doing after the cabin had been badly damaged by the flames, a considerable portion of it having been destroyed.

He found a little bread also.

Mr. Prevost and three of the crew came home in the India of New-London, where they arrived on Wednesday last.

Mr. Prevost conducted himself with great prudence and skill in his trying situation. Before he left the cabin, he found the cabin-boy and sent him for the second mate, determined, with the help of the latter, to retake the ship or die. But the second mate was already in the hands of the murderers, who had bound him fast. Mr. Prevost had no alternative but to secure himself. He suffered intense agony from the horrid wound in his shoulder during those five days, and from both heat and cold. He fell asleep but once during the time. In the morning the flesh in the wound was black and putrefaction set in, and had he not been discovered and brought on deck, he could not have survived twenty-four hours longer. Before the mutineers left the ship they declared their intention of clearing the innocent, and Plummer ordered Herbert to write in the ship's log a statement of the matter, which he did. This statement gives a pretty accurate account of the affair, and asserts that it was done by five men, viz: Plummer, Hall, Cazena, Burns and Herbert, and that all others were innocent. This statement was signed by the above five, and the log containing it is now on board the Junior. The latter is expected to arrive in New-Bedford about the 20th of August, with the eight captured mutineers on board.

Captain Mellen was a good master and kind to his crew, and no grudges were entertained by these fiends against the mates. None of the mutineers gave any reason for the bloody work done, and none except Plummer, who boastingly said he wanted to take the ship, and killed the Captain because he thought the "d——n son of a b——h" would retake her if he were not put out of the way. He paced the deck the next day, and looking at his hatchet and pistol, with which he had dispatched the Captain, exclaimed: "You have done me good service. You laid him low."

The bodies of the Captain and third mate were thrown overboard the morning after the murder.

Mr. Prevost came home in the India instead of the Junior, by advice of the Consul at Sidney.

An Atrocious Crime at Sea.—The whaling ship Herald, Captain Slocum, which arrived at New-Bedford from St. Helena, Tuesday, brought as passenger, Captain E. F. Lakeman, late of ship Cortez of that port, burned at sea, and also Conrad Bunker, 2d mate, Alonzo Worden, 4th mate, Augustus Hammond and George E. Austin, seamen of the Cortez, under arrest on charge of setting fire to said ship. They were surrendered to the custody of the United States Deputy-Marshal, Wm. C. Russell, who lodged them in jail and has brought them to this city for trial. Andrew Cornell and Albert D. Sisson, late of the Cortez, have also arrived in the Herald, as witnesses in the case.—Boston Traveller, Saturday.

[The Newburyport Herald says it is understood that Lieutenant Gillis, so well known for his astronomical observations in Chili, will be the favored one of inferior who will avail himself of Mr. Maury's offer, which we recently noticed, to accompany the expedition of an American Astronomer to Peru, for the purpose of observing the great solar eclipse of September next.

National Expenditures—The Administration Vindicated.

The Washington Union of Saturday contains an elaborate vindication of the Administration from the charges of extravagant expenditure. The article opens:

"A persistent effort is made by the opposition to create a popular belief that the expenditures of the Government for the current fiscal year are to be unprecedented in magnitude. It is also represented with great industry and diligence that, owing to the falling off in Government revenues from the recent paralysis of business, the Government will find a prodigious excess of expenditures over receipts to meet at the next footing up of its annual accounts, requiring a resort to loans of immense amount. In connection with this gloomy picture of Government affairs drawn by our unhappy croakers, they represent manufacturing enterprise in the manufacturing districts of the country to be greatly depressed, and in vital need of the fostering help and protection of the government. They are thus endeavoring to discredit the administration with the people; to excite a popular distrust in the solvency of the government; and, at the same time, to divide the democratic party in the manufacturing districts, on the expediency of burdening a government, which they represent as insolvent and unable to take care of itself, with the general protection of the private interests of the manufacturers."

The Union quotes the appropriations of the last session in detail, and reduces the figure to $70,000,000. It says:

"The actual ascertained appropriations of the session were $64,617,702 78; and that the indefinite appropriations of the session are estimated to amount to about the sum of $3,382,237 22. So that the grand total of Expenditures authorized for the year 1858-9, payable out of the treasury, is $68,000,000.

"This is the total amount authorized by Congress to be paid out of the Treasury, except a standing sum of $2,450,000 authorized by a general law to be expended in the collection of the revenues; which would make the grandest possible total $70,450,000. The efforts of the opposition to run up this figure to $100,000,000 are ingenious and amusing.

"In the first place they resort to the single branch of private business which is conducted by the Government, that of carrying letters and mail packages, and estimate as expenditures of the Government money which never comes into the Treasury, and has never been estimated as revenue funds. It has always been the effort of the Government to make the Post-Office Department pay its own way; neither receiving its receipts into the Treasury nor paying its chief expenses out of the Treasury. Until the era of ocean mail service, it has generally succeeded in nearly equalizing these receipts and expenditures; so that they have never been connected with the general expenditures of the Government either in the estimates of its treasury officers, or in the contests of politicians. The opposition of the present day, however, at a loss for other items, make bold to explore the money-boxes of the thousand-and-one postmasters and mistresses of the country, great and small, and, by the careful collection of three-cent pieces and coppers, have raked up the clever little total of $14,415,820, which they insist shall be estimated as a part of the appropriations of the last session of Congress; whereas Congress only appropriated the excess of the estimated expenditures of the department over the receipts, chiefly on account of the mail service, to wit: $4,560,750, which is included in the foregoing table."

Other items are accounted for as follows:

"We ought not to dismiss this view of the subject without adverting to the fact that the appropriations of the last session of Congress are not all chargeable to the year 1858-9. They included large items of expenditure incurred during preceding years. The general deficiency bill, for instance, which is popularly regarded as covering only the expenditures of the Utah war, in fact covers large items of expenditure having no reference either to that campaign, or to the army, or to the present time. That bill covered two or three millions of deficiencies incurred for other branches of the service wholly disconnected with the army; and, of the amounts appropriated for the army, a very large portion had no connection with the Utah campaign, or with present expenditure at all.

It follows, from what we have said, that, from the authorized expenditures of the Government, of $70,450,000, mentioned before as authorized by the last Congress to be paid out of the Treasury, we ought to deduct for items chargeable to preceding years:

Half the General Deficiency bill, (say).....	$4,500,000
Other deficiencies specified.....	750,000
Denmark Treaty.....	408 000
Total.....	$5,656,000

Making a mere fraction less, to say nothing of the several millions appropriated for works of permanent construction. Deduct these, and the aggregate properly chargeable aims to the neighborhood of fifty millions.

The Fraser River Gold Mines.

The St. Paul (Minnesota) Daily Times states that the first party for the Fraser River gold regions by the Minnesota route, through the valleys of the Red River of the north, the Assiniboin and the Saskatchewan, was to leave St. Paul on Monday, July 26. The credit of organizing this advance party belongs to some enterprising young men of Fairbault, who arrived in this city with complete appointments a few days ago.

The Boston Journal of Saturday says: "We were shown to-day about $3 ounces of gold from the Fraser's River Mines, which has been placed in an exchange office for the inspection of the public. This gold is in fine particles of remarkable purity, and is valued at about $180. It was dug, it is stated, in a few hours, and was consigned to Messrs. Bradshaw & Co., of Broad-street, in this city."

Peter Dawson not Peter Dawson.

"Hon." Peter Dawson.—This brute of a fellow, now in the Penitentiary in New-York for keeping a den of depraved females, was actually a member of the State Legislature in 1855. He was elected on a Democratic ticket, and it is a reproach to the Democrats of the metropolis that they disgrace the party and the whole State by regarding men in Albany as legislators, not a whit better than Fern Dawson.—Rochester Union.

All a mistake. The Peter Dawson who was in the Assembly is an honest man, who supports himself and family by industry and frugality. He is, withal, a modest, quiet man, of irreproachable private character. Mr. Dawson was, it is true, a Democrat, but it would be fortunate if both that party and others in New-York always sent men to the Legislature as honest and reputable as that "Peter Dawson."—Albany Evening Journal.

The American Tract Society of Boston—Programme of Future Operations.—In accordance with the preamble and resolutions adopted in May last, at the annual meeting of this Society, the Executive Committee, Messrs. Henry Hill, Baron Stow, Edward N. Kirk, Charles D. Gould, Edward S. Rand and Andrew L. Stone, have issued an Address to the friends of the Society, in which they state that the organic relations of the Boston Society have not been materially changed by the resolutions adopted at the May meeting. The Boston Society has been a branch of the New-York Society only in the sense of association in sympathy and business arrangements; has always procured its publications where it could on the best terms, and had the entire disposal of all the funds committed to them. The Committee, therefore, make the following announcement in regard to the future proceedings of the Boston Society:

"This Society may, therefore, be made the channel for the contributions of all persons who, for any reason, may prefer our position or our policy to that of the other Society; and we shall feel ourselves at liberty, while sustaining all attempts of any rival movements, to send our agents to any church desiring their services. We invite no separation from that Society; but, under present circumstances, we believe the greatest amount of good will be done by each Society occupying the whole country as its field, because the policies we have respectively adopted now meet either the approval or disapproval of the friends of our common cause, without regard to geographical limits.

We are not an Anti-Slavery Society, but simply a Religious Tract Society, associated for the purpose of promoting, as expressed in the Constitution, the interests of vital godliness and good morals, by the distribution of such books and tracts as may be calculated to receive the approbation of all denominations usually termed evangelical."

In accordance with the spirit of the above resolutions, the Executive Committee are prepared to issue such publications as may appear to them adapted to promote 'the moral and religious interests of men,' upon the subject of slavery, as well as upon any other subject connected with public morals and the evangelization of the land.'

The Committee, therefore, invite from able, earnest and discreet men in every part of the country, such productions of their own, and such selections from the writings of others, upon this and other topics proper to be treated by this Society, as shall enable us fully and promptly to carry out its plans, and to meet the pressing wants of the age.

We wish it, however, to be distinctly understood that we do not now ask for funds to invest as a business capital in the presses and fixtures of a Publishing Society. What we receive will be sacredly expended for the benevolent purposes contemplated by the donors. And in answer to inquiries made, we say to all individuals and associations accustomed in the past to contribute through us for the support of colporteurs in some definite field selected by such contributors, that we are ready to carry out their wishes, by receiving and expending their funds as they shall direct, in any part of the land accessible to us.

We earnestly entreat the churches of our Lord Jesus Christ no longer to permit this important enterprises to decline, because of diverse views on the various questions arising out of the slave system of the time and occasion for that having passed, as we believe the greatest amount of good will be done by each Society occupying the whole country as its field, because the policies we have respectively adopted now meet either the approval or disapproval of the friends of our common cause, without regard to geographical limits.

We are not an Anti-Slavery Society, but simply a Religious Tract Society, associated for the purpose of promoting, as expressed in the Constitution, the interests of vital godliness and good morals, by the distribution of such books and tracts as may be calculated to receive the approbation of all denominations usually termed evangelical."

In accordance with the spirit of the above resolutions, the Executive Committee are prepared to issue such publications as may appear to them adapted to promote 'the moral and religious interests of men,' upon the subject of slavery, as well as upon any other subject connected with public morals and the evangelization of the land.'

The Committee, therefore, invite from able, earnest and discreet men in every part of the country, such productions of their own, and such selections from the writings of others, upon this and other topics proper to be treated by this Society, as shall enable us fully and promptly to carry out its plans, and to meet the pressing wants of the age.

We wish it, however, to be distinctly understood that we do not now ask for funds to invest as a business capital in the presses and fixtures of a Publishing Society. What we receive will be sacredly expended for the benevolent purposes contemplated by the donors. And in answer to inquiries made, we say to all individuals and associations accustomed in the past to contribute through us for the support of colporteurs in some definite field selected by such contributors, that we are ready to carry out their wishes, by receiving and expending their funds as they shall direct, in any part of the land accessible to us.

We earnestly entreat the churches of our Lord Jesus Christ no longer to permit this important enterprises to decline, because of diverse views on the various questions arising out of the slave system of the time and occasion for that having passed. As

THE MASSACRE AT DJIDDA.

Interesting Statement in the House of Lords

On the 19th ult., in the House of Lords, Lord BRAYBROOK presented a petition from Mr. ROBERT TURNBULL, of Djidda, in the Red Sea, stating that on the 15th of June last, a disturbance took place between the Turkish soldiers and the Christian residents, in which the petitioner was severely wounded, and his property destroyed to the amount of £20,000. The petitioner had been obliged to leave Djidda, and had arrived in England. He prayed their lordships to take his case into consideration, and to grant him such relief as they might think proper.

Lord BRAYBROOK said that the petitioner had been a resident in Djidda for twenty-five years, and had been obliged to leave it in consequence of the massacre which had taken place there. He had arrived in England in a destitute condition, and had been obliged to apply to the Government for relief. He had received £100 from the Government, and £50 from the Turkish Government, but he had been obliged to leave behind him property to the amount of £20,000. He had been wounded in the massacre, and had been obliged to have his arm amputated. He had been a merchant in Djidda for twenty-five years, and had been obliged to leave his wife and family behind him. He had been obliged to leave Djidda in consequence of the massacre, and had arrived in England destitute. He had been obliged to apply to the Government for relief, and had received £100 from them, and £50 from the Turkish Government

"NOTHING TO WEAR."
D. APPLETON & CO. publish this day a striking Society Poem of universal interest, entitled
"TWO MILLIONS"
By WILLIAM ALLEN BUTLER, Esq.,
the popular author of that most spirited and successful production,
"NOTHING TO WEAR,"
which had so extraordinary a circulation on both sides of the Atlantic, and was everywhere quoted, applauded, and imitated.
"TWO MILLIONS"
is distinguished by all the brilliant characteristics of the writer as to wit, force, and tenderness, and will be found in all respects equal, if not superior, to
"NOTHING TO WEAR."
"Look through the world which all about you lies,
The noisy town, its common, daily life,
Pierced with coarse passions, or with selfish strife,
The crowded street, the dens of vice and waste,
The gilded halls where pride and fashion flaunt,
And from their mingled threads, the grave, the gay,
Weave, if you will, the epic of to-day."

POLICE INTELLIGENCE.

...Affair in the Sixth Ward—An Old Man ...ed by "Dead Rabbits"—Escape of ...Ruffians.

...Dead Rabbits" and some "Bowery ...ys" had a ...ry extensive entertainment on Saturday morning, at the corner of Centre and ...Pearl streets. The "Dead Rabbits," being in the majority, soon dispersed their enemies. A few minutes after the ...ormation of the fight, the "Dead ...bits" were ...ready ...ing in possession of the field. ...Timothy Reidy, a man nearly sixty years of age, and ...Thomas Buckley, his son-in-law, came walking by, ...when one of the young rowdies said, "There comes two of the 'Bowery Boys,' let's at them." Several ...of them made a spring for the two men. Doheny ...dashed under a cart, and thence quickly made his ...escape into a house. Mr. Reidy started to run, but he was instantly struck over the head with a stone about ...the weight of a pound, which caused him to fall to the pavement; after which ...he ...brutally ...kicked. An alarm was instantly given, which called the Police to the spot. Reidy was taken up, and conveyed to the City Hospital, but died within ...a few minutes after his admission. A deep cut was found across the back of his head.

The deceased resided at No. 109 Mulberry-street, and leaves a wife and three grown-up children. He ...had left word for a friend to call at the residence of Doheny, No. ...[illegible] street, but a few doors from the place ...where the murderous assault was committed. The ...Police have been actively engaged since the commission of the outrage, in searching for the guilty parties. The description given of them by Doheny ...leaves no doubt in their minds as to who some of ...the ...parties ...are. The Coroner will hold an inquest on the body to-day. The deceased was a laborer, and is ...reported to have been a quiet, inoffensive man. ...Doheny ...belonged to the gang of "Bowery Boys," and they were passing that way at ...the time merely by accident.

...Robbery upon a Water-street Dance-House.

A girl named Mary Ann Ketchum, 19 years of age, ...has, upon application of her mother, (who had not ...seen her since May last,) on Saturday afternoon taken from a notorious dance house kept by William ...Hamilton, at No. 303 Water-street, and brought to the ...Fourth Ward Station-house, where she was detained ...until Monday morning, when she was taken before ...Justice Connolly, and made an affidavit as to the ...character of the house. Justice Connolly issued a ...warrant for the arrest of the proprietor and all the in...mates, and at 10 o'clock last night Captain De Camp, ...Sergeant Tweedie, and officers Rackett and Law...rence proceeded to the premises and arrested Hamil...ton, his wife and three girls. They were locked up ...in the station-house, and will be brought before a ...Magistrate this morning.

...Breaking up a Dance-House.—At a late hour ...Friday night the Fourth Ward Police made a descent ...on the dance house No. 340 Water-street, kept by ...Hiram Smith. The proprietor, girls and visitors at ...the place were arrested, and on Saturday Seiber and ...the girls were committed to the Tombs by Justice ...Connolly. The descent was made in consequence of a complaint made by Ann Coley, a married wo...man, who, arriving here from Boston with her two children, was induced by one Johnny McCarty to ...stop at the place. He represented that it was a re...spectable boarding-house. While in the house she ...was robbed of $35, all the money she had in the ...world.

...New Counterfeits.—Two new $20 counter...feits on the Waterville Bank, of Waterville, Maine, and $5 counterfeits on the Merchants' Bank of New-...port, R. I., made their appearance in the City on ...Friday. The first counterfeit is well executed. On ...the left of the bill is a representation of three fa...males, one of whom is a little seated on the top, a ...locomotive and train of cars. The vignette on the counterfeit two is a representation of ...two females and a bale of goods; a ship under sail, ...and a steamship in the distance. On the lower left ...hand corner is a portrait of General Zach. Taylor. ...Four men, giving their names as Richard Clark, Wil...liam Patterson, Wm. Daly and Leonard Devoe, were ...arrested for attempting to pass the last-mentioned ...counterfeit, and were locked up by Justice Bosworth ...in answer.

...Stealing Mules.—On Saturday morning Mr. ...Christian Klausmeyer discovered that his stable in ...Jersey City had been broken into during the night, ...and two mules, which he used in towing boats on the ...Morris and Essex Canal, stolen. After a vigilant ...search, the missing animals were found in the pos...session of John H. Raf, No. 307 Rivington-street. ...Raf stated that he bought them of two Germans, ...named Michael Lederle and John Hammon. These ...two individuals were hunted up by the Police, and ...being unable to give a satisfactory account of their ...possession of the mules, were committed by Justice ...Bosworth.

...Easy as Coal.—A few nights since, some ...person broke into the house of Mr. Wm. Farnham, ...No. 7 Avenue A, and stole some money and clothing. ...As Mr. Farnham was walking through Allen-street ...yesterday, he observed a youth cutting considerable ...of a coat with his (Farnham's) Sunday coat on. He ...followed the fellow quietly until he came across a Po...liceman, and then had him arrested. The youth was ...somewhat taken aback, and confessed that he was ...the culprit. He gave his name as Frederick Living...ston, and was committed by Justice Bosworth for ...trial.

...Taking Away Policemen's Clubs.—A lot of ...Bowery-corner-and Saturday evening at the corner ...of Canal and Mott streets. Officers Bradley and ...Rickett, of the Sixth Ward, endeavored to disperse ...them, when the gang at once set upon them, coolly ...took away their clubs and then told them to go away ...and to mind their own business. The officers did go away and procured more policemen to aid ...them in recovering their clubs, but on their ...return the crowd had dispersed. Officer Bradley lost ...his club, but which he hit with is not known.

...Petit Larceny.—James W. Sypher, of ...Staten-Island, was committed, Saturday, by Justice ...Connolly, on a charge of obtaining, under fraudulent representations, $100 worth of ...goods from Joel Porter, No. 60 Canal-street. It is ...rumored, it is charged, that he represented that he ...was the owner of several lots in Brooklyn; and that ...he was associated in business with two or three ...heavy ...dry goods dealers in this City.

...Jostling ...Park.—As Peter Berryman, a ...farmer, in the City, was passing through the City ...Hall Park on Saturday evening, he was assaulted by ...two men, who attempted to pick his pocket. Being ...aware of their intention, one of the gang grabbed ...his arm in the back, inflicting a serious wound. ...The ...assailant escaped, and the injured man was ta...ken to the City Hospital.

...Assaulting Rape.—Frederick Dunkoff, a young ...man, was committed to prison on Saturday to ...answer a charge of attempting to rape upon a girl eight ...years old, daughter of Mr. Frederick Briggen, of ...No. 206 West Forty-ninth-st., while he was ...drunk. The father would have taken the life of ...the accused when the affair was brought to his ...notice, but for those present prevented him.

...Assaulted Mannheimer.—Moses Lahman, a ...German, in the employ of Charles Schultz, butcher, ...of No. 1 Avenue A, and Second Saturday, on a ...charge of assaulting about $200 which he had col...lected from the customers of his employer. Justice ...Bosworth committed him for examination.

Coroner's Inquests.

...Death by Suppressed Violence.—An inquest ...was held, Saturday, upon the body of Mary Wanz...zaurer, a German woman, 32 years of age. She was ...of very intemperate habits, and frequently quarreled ...with her husband. The day before she died she ...quarreled somewhat violently with her husband, ...who, it is thought, struck her on the head, neck ...and other parts of the body. Over the right eye was ...a black mark, and the brain underneath was found ...to be ...extravasated. The Doctor gave it as his ...opinion that the result of violence. As no ...evidence could be adduced, tracing the violence to ...any one else, the Jury rendered a ver...dict of Death from violence from some person or ...persons unknown.

...Sudden Death.—An inquest was held ...yesterday ...by ...Coroner A. Reese, on ...the body of ...Thomas ...Tunstead, and ...rendered a ver...dict of accidental drowning.

...Fatal Fall.—An inquest was held yesterday on the ...body of Patrick Griffin, who died on Friday last at the ...corner of Fifty-first-street, East River, while helping ...to ...[illegible] another ...[illegible]. ...[illegible] ...verdict rendered.

...Suicide.—An inquest was held ...[illegible] on the ...body of Florence Sullivan, who committed ...[illegible] ...[illegible] ...[illegible]
